

COMMAND POST

November 2002

WWW.SALUTE.CO.UK

EDITOR'S INTERNAL PUBLICATIONS OFFICER'S RAVINGS

Well here it is, a new look "mini" command post. This newsletter is the format that all but the final Command Post of the year will be in. The final one will be a more substantial work containing the best submissions of the year plus the club constitution and other important bits of info like that. Of course, as always, submissions from you the members are welcome and they will be published on the website (URL above). One thing that I would love to see is a brief blurb from each of our little gaming cliques about the game they play. There are a bewildering array of games listed as being played by you lot (over 70 different systems and that's just the ones you've told us about!) and you can read a report about one of them, Slaughterloo, on the club website. In the next issue I'll publish a full list of the games systems played so you can dust off those old figures you never use any more because you didn't think anyone else played 10mm Space Wombat Kung Fu any more.

Adam Tennant, Internal Publications Officer – adamtennant@hotmail.com

ARTICLES

(these articles can be found on the warlords website in the warlords/club magazine section along with the Adobe Acrobat version of this erudite publication)

Command Post: The need for change

At this year's AGM the membership made some decisions about modifying Committee job descriptions and Command Post which, it seems, might need further explanation and clarification.

Games Day report

Games Workshop's big flagship event, Games Day, was held in September in Birmingham on the weekend of the 28th/29th and the South London Warlords again had a presence at the show in the form of a fantasy chariot racing participation game. A full report of how the game went will hopefully follow soon.

Long forgotten games can be a welcome inspiration

An introduction to alternative armies' Slaughterloo wargame.

SOUTH LONDON WARLORDS CLUB EVENTS

25 th November 02	Warhammer ECW game organised by Ian Spence
9 th December 02	Man O War Pirates organised by Mike Popay
16 th December 02	SLW Christmas bash at the Sea Cadets hall in Penge
1 st January 03	Firebase Vietnam organised by Peter Merritt
15 th February 03	Saturday Club Opening, mid day until 11PM. Break out those big games!
26 th April 03	Salute Zero Three. Olympia 2, Kensington, London, UK